DETAILED ACTION

Priority

1. Applicant's claim for the benefit of a prior-filed application under 35 U.S.C. 119(e) or under 35 U.S.C. 120, 121, or 365(c) is acknowledged to be correct.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(g)(1) during the course of an interference conducted under section 135 or section 291, another inventor involved therein establishes, to the extent permitted in section 104, that before such person's invention thereof the invention was made by such other inventor and not abandoned, suppressed, or concealed, or (2) before such person's invention thereof, the invention was made in this country by another inventor who had not abandoned, suppressed, or concealed it. In determining priority of invention under this subsection, there shall be considered not only the respective dates of conception and reduction to practice of the invention, but also the reasonable diligence of one who was first to conceive and last to reduce to practice, from a time prior to conception by the other.

3. Claims 1, 4-5, and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Sachinopoulou et al. (Lasers in Medical Science 1995, 10:83-91).

Sachinopoulou et al. teaches of laser TMR, procedure to induce angiogenesis in under perfused myocardium, which is well known in the art (abstract). The procedure consists of cutting channels in underperfused myocardium to induce angiogenesis.

Sachinopoulou et al. teaches of imaging to detect the underperfused regions (Table 4).

Sachinopoulou et al. teaches of channel topography in Table 1.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 2-3 and 6-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Sachinopoulou et al. (Lasers in Medical Science 1995, 10:83-91) in view of Laufer et al. (USPN 6283935).

Sachinopoulou et al. teaches of laser TMR, procedure to induce angiogenesis in under perfused myocardium, which is well known in the art (abstract). The procedure consists of cutting channels in underperfused myocardium to induce angiogenesis. Sachinopoulou et al. teaches of imaging to detect the underperfused regions (Table 4). Sachinopoulou et al. teaches of channel topography in Table 1. Sachinopoulou et al. does not teach of mechanical cutting means.

Laufer et al. teaches of TMR with an ultrasound needle. Laufer et al. also teaches of growth factor delivery (column 6, lines 43-51). Laufer teaches of channel width in the 1-5 mm range. Laufer teaches that channel depth/length is dependent upon the patient (column 4, lines 47-57)..

It would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains to combine the Sachinopoulou et al. TMR visualization with the Laufer ultrasound TMR with channel dimensions in order to tailor treatment based on patient.

Conclusion

6. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Auth et al. (USPN 6030380) & Mueller (USPN 5725523).
